Homes

The Cheyenne lived in teepees made of buffalo hide. The teepee was a good home for the nomadic Cheyenne. The women were the people who set up the campsite. A fire was built in the center. This fire warmed the teepee and made it glow like a lantern.

War

The Cheyenne went to war against other tribes to protect their territory. Any man could head a war party. Before going to battle, the war party asked a medicine man to give them advice. After a successful battle, the war party dressed in their finest war costumes.

Food

The Cheyenne planted corn, squash, pumpkins, beans, and tobacco. The Cheyenne also traded with other Native American tribes and Europeans. They traded buffalo hides for corn, tobacco, coffee, and guns.
