

CROW

By JOHN

My project is about the Crow Indian tribe. The Crow people lived in teepees. The teepees were made of buffalo skins and wooden poles. They were known to build some of the largest teepees.

Traditional clothing worn by the women wasn't very fancy. The women wore dresses made of deerskins or mountain sheep. The men dressed in shirts, trimmed leggings with a belt, and a robe. Both genders wore moccasins on their feet.

The Crow Indian tribal life differed from other tribes because the women often played very important roles within their community. When they got married, the males moved in with the woman and their families. Females within the Crow tribe could even be chief.
