Unit Three- The Courts

There are two key assignments in this unit. The first key assignment relates to how juries are selected and their importance in a case. The second key assignment is a mock trial highlighting each position in the courtroom and how it relates to the trial.

- 1. Jury Selection Assignment: After discussion and on how a person can qualify to become a juror, students will be given an opportunity to choose their own jury from a panel of potential jurors. The case, victim and defendant will be described prior to the students hearing the profiles of the potential jurors. Students will be broken up into groups of four. Two students will be chosen as the prosecution and the other two will be defense attorneys. The groups will be shown photos and profiles of 16 potential jurors for a street robbery case. The students must take notes and rate the jurors based their profiles. After all profiles have been presented, the two teams will go back and forth choosing jurors based on how they feel they will see their case. Each side may strike two jurors the other side chooses until 12 jurors are "sitting" for the case. After the panel is set, the instructor will give points for each potential juror based on their potential biases. For example, juror number one, who is an elderly female, may relate more to the victim who is also elderly and therefore the prosecution will earn more points for getting juror one on the panel as opposed to defense who will earn less for having juror one selected. This assignment is a competitive learning activity in which the students want to earn more points than the other side in order to "win" the case.
- 2. Mock Trial Assignment: After discussion and research on the courts and how a case is tried the students will participate in a mock homicide trial. Students will be chosen to play the role or part of a judge, bailiff, court clerk, prosecuting attorney and defense attorney. A defendant will be chosen and may or may not testify depending on what the defense attorney decides. Other students will be given the role of investigation police officer, crime scene expert, Sergeant, pathologist, or witness. A jury of twelve will be chosen and will decide if the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt or not guilty. The prosecution will be tasked with presenting the evidence to prove the elements of a homicide are present and the defendant is responsible. The case is set up so that either side can win depending on the evidence presented or the doubt provided by the defense.

Unit Four- Branches of the Criminal Justice System

Assignment 1:

Students will explore the court procedures by sitting in on an arraignment, preliminary hearing and/or a Trial. Through this exploration process students will sketch and illustrate the court's design, compile court proceedings (what case is about) and explain the position of each person who took part in the hearing. Assignment 2:

Students will evaluate the proceedings, document the proceedings and propose to the class what was discovered without disclosing the type of hearing student attended. Students will interpret to the class their outcome of the court proceeding. Using their sketch and illustration students will present their findings to the class demonstrating their knowledge using technical law terms. During this presentation the class will create questions for the student who completed the court exploration process.
