

The Cheyenne Tribe

a report by Allison

Traditions: I picked the Cheyenne tribe because I've never heard of them before. My dad knows about this tribe. The women love to do crafts. The women write on bull skin. The wedding ceremony is a special part of the Cheyenne tribe. The most special ceremony is the Sun Dance. Men from the Cheyenne tribe poke two holes through their chest and weave thread through the holes to show their bravery. The boys learn to use spears at about age 7. When the boys get older, they will go fight in war. Horse stealing, when an Indian steals a horse from another tribe, is a sport to these Indians. They don't get in trouble, but are admired for their bravery.
