The Comanche Indians lived in Texas. They had many rivers in Texas. The Comanche Indians first lived in the Rocky Mountains and moved down to the flat lands. As the years passed, the Comanche settled in Oklahoma.

The Comanche homes were called tipis. Tipis were made out of buffalo skins. The Comanche built their tipis with four poles with designs on the sides. The tipis felt soft and kept in a lot of warm air.

The Comanche hunted and ate buffalo. The Comanche also ate fish and wild berries. The Comanche women carried and cooked buffalo for all the tribe.

Buffalo was used for their clothing also. They made shoes called moccasins. The Comanche used buffalo skulls for armor and to decorate headdresses.

The Comanche were very skilled. They rode fast horses and hunted at the same time. They used bows and arrows for fighting. The Comanche celebrated with dances and feasts.
