

Hopi by William

My Native American report is on the Hopi Indians. The Hopi Indians live in northwestern Arizona. They have been living there for thousands of years. Also, the Hopi Indians were experts at farming. They planted crops of corn, beans, and squash, as well as cotton, and also raised turkeys. Also Hopi men hunted deer while women gathered nuts and fruit and herds and cornbread. Also the Hopi Indians made Kachina dolls and fine pottery baskets, also Kapi Kachina.

Last but not least, what were Hopi Indians' weapons and tools like? Hopi hunters used bows and arrowheads. The Hopi did not go to war often. Hopi warriors did sometimes have to divide their territory.

And what kind of stories did they tell? There are lots of traditional Hopi legends and fairy tales. Storytelling is very important to the Hopi Indian culture. There is a Hopi story about a rooster and a mockingbird trying to win a wife.