Character COUNTS

Ever notice that whenever you plan on leaving the house to run an errand, visit a friend or go to the gym, you always check yourself out in the mirror to make sure that you look presentable? You look at your outfit and mess with your hair before heading out the door. You never know who you might meet on your little adventure and it would be horrible to not look your best. However, we never take the time to make sure our attitude is in check before leaving. We head out the door looking great, yet sometimes housing a storm inside.

The problem with feeling terrible or having a bad attitude is that it's very hard not to pass it on to someone else. Many times we take our frustration and anger out on a waitress or store clerk or even worse, our kids. Our bad attitude spills on to someone else, and then they pass it on to the next person, and so forth. Before you know it, the day is done and you've done nothing to make this world a better place. Instead, you have done just the opposite.

We as adults are responsible for helping build the character of our kids. Trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring, and citizenship make up the six pillars of character. Each and every day our kids are faced with tough choices to make. As they get older, friends become a very strong influence in their lives and without a strong character foundation, they may very well get caught up in a bad decision.

So the next time you look into that mirror before heading out of the house, look beyond the physical appearance and make sure the whole package is ready to go. Smile, relax, and make sure you leave the house with a plan to make someone's day a little brighter.

Remember.....no matter where or when.....character counts!

This year we observe Martin Luther King Jr. Day of Service on January 20th.
Dr. King is known for his leadership
during the American Civil Rights Movement. His "I Have a Dream" speech highlights a world he envisioned with equal justice for all people under the law.
On this day we recognize Dr. King's legacy of services while inspiring us to serve in our own way.

According to the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS), MLK Day is the only federal holiday designated as a National Day of Service. Americans are encouraged to spend this day volunteering to improve their communities.

Second Step Lessons

Empathy & Kindness Unit:
Children learn how to recognize kindness and act kindly, have empathy for others and take others' perspectives, and recognize kind acts and empathy as important elements of building and maintaining relationships.

The Great Kindness Challenge January 27-31

Our school is proudly participating in The Great Kindness Challenge, a weeklong program dedicated to creating a culture of kindness and compassion in communities worldwide.

To help our students practice kindness and put their compassion into action, they will receive a Great Kindness Challenge checklist. We will encourage all students to complete as many acts of kindness as possible at school and hope they feel inspired to continue them at home.

At the heart of the Great Kindness Challenge is a simple belief that kindness is strength. During the Great Kindness Challenge, students have the opportunity to repeat kind act after kind act. As kindness becomes a habit, peace becomes possible. The Great Kindness Challenge is a grassroots movement that is making our schools, communities, and world a kinder and more compassionate place for all. Working together, we joyfully prove that KINDNESS MATTERS!
